	Název kurzu	Kód kurzu	Instituce	anotace
Tatiana Tökölyová	Extrémizmus a digitálne prostredie na Slovensku	JPB801	Univerzita Nitra	Slovensku je poskytnúť študentom komplexné poznatky o tom, ako digitálne technológie formujú politické procesy, ovplyvňujú kvalitu demokracie a vytvárajú nové riziká pre šírenie extrémistických tendencií. Kurz sa zameriava na špecifický vývoj Slovenska od obdobia mečiarizmu až po súčasnosť, pričom reflektuje témy volebnej integrity, úlohu sociálnych médií a influencerov v politike, ako aj otázky radikalizácie a extrémizmu v online prostredí. Študenti budú vedení k rozvíjaniu kritického myslenia a schopnosti analyzovať vzťah medzi digitálnou komunikáciou, politickými aktérmi a občianskou spoločnosťou. Záverečným výstupom je schopnosť hodnotiť dopady digitálneho prostredia na fungovanie demokracie na Slovensku a diskutovať o možnostiach jeho regulácie a ochrany demokratických procesov.
Petr Oskolkov	Post-Soviet Nationalisms and Ethnic Politics	JPM879	Bar-Ilan University	The course explores the key concepts in nationalism studies and ethnic politics applied to the post-Soviet macro-region, the logic behind nation-building, language politics, and ethnopolitical conflicts, the interplay between state-inspired and grassroots nationalism, cross-border ethnic dynamics, and digitalization of nationalism in the online realm.
Pierre Allan	International Ethics and Just Peace	JPM874	Université de Genève	principles constitute the pillars of a universal morality, applicable both at the interpersonal as well as the collective level, in relation to the overarching concepts of “just war” but also “just peace”.
Luisa Antoniolli	Current Challenges in EU Law: Migration and Foreign and Security Policy	JPM844	Trento	The course examines how the European Union works through two paradigmatic policies: migration and asylum, and common foreign, security and defence policy. Focusing on legal aspects in their social, economic and political context, it traces the evolution of EU competences, policy structures, institutional relations, and the impact of recent crises.
Oliver P. Richmond	Existující kursy, ad hoc přednáška/y, workshop	xxxxx	The University of Manchester	Peace and Conflict Studies. He is founder of the MA in Peace and Conflict Studies and contributes to its core modules in the Department of Politics at the University of Manchester. In 2019, he received an Eminent Scholar Award from the International Studies Association. He has worked with international actors, especially the UN, and civil society organisations in several conflict-affected areas around the world. He has contributed to numerous policy reports,documentaries, and recently to UNESCO's work on culture for peace, as well to the Nobel Centre's recent exhibitions on Artpeace.
Kuo-chun YEH	Gambling on development: the cases of Taiwan and the Chinese mainland	JPM845	NTU	Why do some countries remain mired in poverty while others successfully embar on a path to growth? Dercon (2022) posits a compelling solution to this mystery: the defining feature of a 'development bargain' is a steadfast commitment by political, economic, and social elites to pursue national development. This lecture series will examine the cases of Taiwan and the Chinese Mainland to validate this argument and explore their future strategic directions.
Elai Rettig	Energy Security in Israel and the Middle Eas	JPM822	Bar Ilan University	This course examines how the global energy markets operate and how they affect the politics and economics of Israel and the Middle East. It is relevant to students interested in working in the energy/environmental policy world.
Adam Fagan	From Conflict to Coexistence: Peace, Security, and Sovereignty in Israel/Palestine	JPM875	King's College London	This course explores peace, security, and self-determination through shared sovereignty, confederal models, and post-conflict lessons from Bosnia to Northern Ireland. Dive into political theory and real-world solutions shaping the future of Israel/Palestine.
Samuel Zeitlin	History and International Politics: Carl Schmitt's Political and Historical Thought on World War, International Organization and Empire	JPB820	UCL	The course will look at Carl Schmitt's international thought via an examination of Schmitt's Theory of the Partisan, Land and Sea, Nomos of the Earth, and late dialogues. The course will look at themes of geo-politics, world order, and the history of the First and Second World Wars as seen from Schmitt's perspective.

Ivan Henrico, Susanna Henrico	QGIS (Quantum Geographic Information System) Training: Fundamentals to Advance Analysis Competency	JPM847	Stellenbosch University	This course is structured in modules that consist of exercises with different levels of difficulty. Each exercise forms part of the building block that will help you to handle the basic and advanced functionalities and tools available in QGIS. The objectives of this course are to highlight the usability of a GIS to perform basic and advanced geospatial analysis in QGIS, understand key GIS concepts, and learn key GIS tools using QGIS.
Balázs Majtényi	European Roma Policies	JPM846	Eötvös Loránd University (ELTE), Budapest	Discover the development, achievements, and challenges of Roma policymaking in Europe. Professor Balázs Majtényi of Eötvös Loránd University will lead this intensive Master's course, drawing on his extensive research in minority rights, human rights, and Roma social history.
Eeben Barlow	Geopolitics and security in Africa	JPM804	Executive Outcomes/Stellenbosch University	The course covers the development of the African security issues inside the post-Cold War geopolitical framework. Based in practical experience as well as academic credibility, the lectures will provide students with a up-to-date and unique perspective upon the security threats on the African continent. The lecture will cover both theoretical approaches towards the conflicts in Africa and case studies – mainly Sierra Leone, Nigeria, Angola, CAR or Mozambique